Science Week Speakers

This week, we were delighted to welcome three fantastic external speakers who joined us as part of our biggest Science Week ever!

John Meredith from Understanding Animal Research spoke with our Y10 Separate Science students, tackling common misconceptions and exploring the important uses of animals in scientific research.

Dr Sam Keenor, former student and now a post-doctoral researcher at the University of East Anglia, delivered an insightful talk to our Y12 Environmental Science A level group about the importance of soil and its vital relationship with atmospheric carbon dioxide.

Dr Luana Parisi inspired our Year 9 students with a brilliant session on Equality in STEM and Science.

A huge thank you to all our speakers for giving their time, expertise, and enthusiasm. We are incredibly grateful for their contribution to making this our best Science Week yet!
